Crowd4SDG

has participated in the CERN workshop organized as part of the Crowd4SDG EU project for citizen science on 18. January – 29. January 2021.

During the programme the participant has learned the necessary skills to formulate a challenge and a solution to it, evaluate the solution in a systemic way, create and use prototypes, conduct stakeholder interviews, and communicate the proposed solution effectively. The participant has also gained experience on remote collaboration, giving and receiving feedback, as well as working under pressure. The participant has worked through these steps, loosely based on the design thinking methodology, to turn an idea of a solution to a convincing pitch.
